TEACHING FEMALE REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH

Working with Binti Period, along with other organisations in, on why it is important female reproductive health is taught at an early age to ensure they understand their body. Use case studies on the damage the absence of education can have

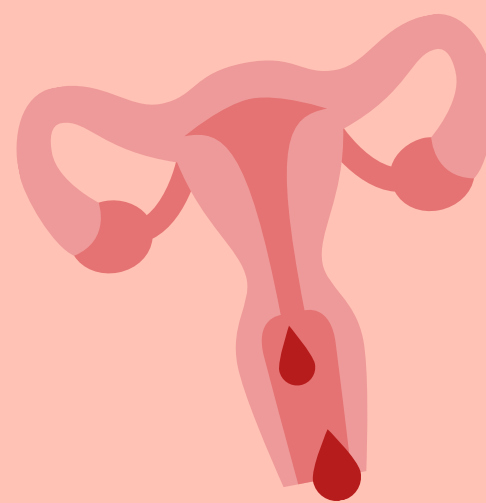

PUSHING SUSTAINABLE PERIOD PRODUCTS

Looking at the most sustainable period products and how Plastic tampon applicators and wrappers can take 500 years to break down for instance

AFFORBABLE AND ACCESSIBLE SUSTAINABLE PRODUCTS

Look at who profits from periods, what the tax is around the world and how available period products are for all women, for instance refugees, homeless and those in poorer rural areas

AUTONOMY ON FEMALE REPRODUCTION IS CRUCIAL FOR FEMALE EMPOWERMENT

Talk to politicians women in sports, teachers, doctors etc and understand why it is essential we better educate our women about female reproductive health and make products accessible
